Editorial

I am pleased to introduce you to the 'Preeminence' an interdisciplinary research journal which is very unique in its kind, as it publishes articles that challenge current models, tenets and dogmas. The articles are based on rigorous, and well documented results that do not support these models or even disprove them.

The Preeminence, an interdisciplinary research Journal has started its journey to get the position as the premier international outlet for different studies of different disciplines. As such, the journal is planned to do many obvious things in a right way. It is designed to publish the works that is programmatic, rigorously designed and analyzed, and of great theoretical importance. The works to be published in this journal will be widely cited and will include most influential studies in different fields. The journal has a fairly rapid turnaround time, and the reviews are typically of high quality. As editor, I will work to ensure that all of these positive aspects remain in place, and to make changes that I believe will help the journal maintain its leadership position in the future.

There will be two main innovations that I will bring to the journal. The first is to broaden coverage to include more articles and the second is to encourage the submission of shorter empirical articles through the initiation of a Brief Reports section. I anticipate that experimental studies and theoretical articles based on such findings will continue to represent the large majority of articles published in the journal. I hope to attract some of the highest quality papers in different subjects that have such implications and that is why I have selected a very experienced and highly intellectual individuals in the Review Committee of this journal. Having these individuals as reviewers will help to ensure that authors become aware of the most relevant work in the different fields.

I hope that the presence of Editorial Board members will attract papers that might not have been submitted otherwise, as authors may anticipate a more sympathetic reading from those who have done the researches themselves. I hope to publish articles from different countries and from different professional spheres, from people working in education, science and technology, humanities, languages, social sciences, healthcare and administration, for example, indeed from wherever people are working on issues which incur deliberations about emancipation, democracy, empowerment, social justice, fairness and equal opportunities.

It is an honour to have been selected as Editor of this prestigious journal. I encourage my colleagues to submit their best papers to Preeminence. I hope to be able to continue the journal's long tradition of publishing some of the best and most influential papers through opening the door a bit wider to newer perspectives.
